TELLS TALE OF CRIME

Harry Orchard Testifies in the Haywood Case.

COMMITTED MANY MURDERS

Witness Declares He Acted Under Orders of the Defendant and His Associates—Relates a Horrible Story of Wholesale Murder.

Boise, Ida., June 6.—Alfred Horsley, alias Harry Orchard, the actual assassin of Frank Steunenberg, went on the stand a witness against William D. Haywood and confessed to a long chain of brutal, revolting crimes, done, he said, at the instigation and for the pay of the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners.

An undertaking by the special prosecutors for the state that they would by later proof and connection legitimize his testimony opened the way like a flood gate to the whole diabolical story and throughout the day Orchard went on from crime recital to crime recital, each more revolting than those that had come before.

Orchard confessed that as a member of the mob that wrecked the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill in the Coner D' Alenes he lighted one of the fuses that carried fire to the explosion; confessed that he set the death trap in the Vindicator mine at Cripple Creek that blew out the lives of Superintendent McCormick and Foreman Beck; confessed that because he had not been paid for his first attempt at violence in the Vindicator mine he had been treacherous to his associates by warning the managers of the Florence and Cripple Creek railway that there was a plot to blow up their trains; confessed that he fired three charges of buckshot into the body of Detective Lyte Gregory of Denver, killing him instantly; confessed that for days he stalked Governor Peabody about Denver waiting a chance to kill him; confessed that he and Steve Adams set and discharged the mine under the depot at Independence that killed fourteen men, and confessed that failing in an attempt to poison Fred Bradley of San Francisco he blew him and his house up with a bomb of gelatin.

And he has more brutal crimes to tell that will bring his bloody career down to its end at Caldwell, where with a great bomb he killed Governor Steunenberg.

Wearied of Disgusting Details.

The story was told to a tense-nerved, rigid crowd that watched with staring eyes for every move and word of the confessing witness; a crowd that was sickened and weary of its disgusting details long before James H. Hawley, pleading illness of himself, at 3 o'clock secured adjournment for the day.

Orchard retained control of himself almost from the moment he took the stand and if he suffered much he did not show it. His eyes were bloodshot and his face mottled when he came into the room to confront the man whose life he jeopardizes. He was mainly nervous. He seemed at first to lose a little of his physical control, for he walked unsteadily as he neared the stand and reached in an indefinite way for the arms of the chair. He had trouble in finding his voice for a few minutes, but only for a few moments. He quickly steadied himself and was soon talking in the soft, easy tones that characterize his speech. His manner was easy and his gaze steady in any direction that a question claimed his attention. His eyes blinked a little when he told how he trailed and murdered Lyte Gregory, but his voice altered not at all.

His eyes met those of Haywood several times and the two gazed fixedly at each other in tests with honors even.

Orchard's entry into the courtroom, after a dramatic pause, was itself intensely dramatic. Five witnesses who traced Horsley and Jack Simpkins at various times prior to the Steunenberg murder at Caldwell, Nampa and Silver City and further fixed their movements by identifying hotel registers where they had signed their names, consumed the first hour of the session and then Senator Borah, looking toward the bench, said in a quiet tone:

Knew Orchard Was to Come.

"It will be a few moments before the next witness arrives." The crowd knew Orchard was to come, and in keen expectancy watched the doors.

Haywood's mother, Mrs. Carruthers of Salt Lake City, and her daughter sat beside the prisoner and his wife, they having arrived here Tuesday. None of the Haywood group could see either door without turning and while they steadily faced to the front they showed their expectancy for the appearance of the man whose testimony may mean so much to them. Orchard had spent the night and morning at the office of James H. Hawley, and was brought to the courthouse in a carriage with three armed guards. In the chambers of the judge he was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Ras Beamer, who is to be his special guard at the trial. Strangers entering the courtroom were searched for weapons and when Orchard reached the building the doors of the trial room were locked and extra deputies posted outside the rail. Sheriff Shad Hodgkin cleared an aisle back of the seats of the Haywood party, and when he got a signal from the judge's chambers that all was ready, he nodded his head to Mr. Hawley.

"Call Harry Orchard," said the state's leading counsel in a loud tone.

The chambers' door swung open and out marched Orchard, led by Ras Beamer, and followed by two penitentiary guards and two detectives, all armed. They marched around the rail and then faced the crowd while Orchard climbed to the witness chair.

Haywood leaned down between his counsel so that he might get a clear unobstructed view of the witness stand and for fully five minutes gazed steadily at Orchard. The latter, however, was giving his attention to the state's counsel on the other side of the room and it was not until the first interruption came from the defense that the two looked at each other.

There were a few preliminaries as to Orchard's birthplace and real name and his first days in the North Idaho country and then Hawley led him down to the destruction of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine. He was telling of the meeting of the Burk union of the Western Federation of Miners when the defense made its first strong attack. Attorney Richardson objected on the ground that the events occurred years before Haywood was a member of the central body of the federation and that he in no way was connected with it.

Senator Borah contended that the state had a right to prove the facts about the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine for the purpose of showing why the Western Federation of Miners had taken umbrage at Governor Steunenberg. Judge Wood ruled that the general facts were admissible but put a limitation on details. Orchard then told of the blowing up of the property, saying that W. F. Davis, later the president of the Western Federation of Miners at Cripple Creek, had command of the mob. He told of the seizure of the train, the theft of the giant powder, the attack upon the mines, concluding:

Lit One of the Fuses.

"I lit one of the fuses myself."

Orchard then told of his flight into Montana and of various journeys in the Western country until he turned up in Cripple Creek in 1902, went to work in the mines and joined the Western Federation of Miners. All this was under the renewed objections from the defense, all of which was overruled by the court, on the strength of promises by the state to show the connection of the defendant later.

The witness told of the plot to blow up the Vindicator mine. He confessed that after the strike began he went down into the mine "high grading," and there discovered a quantity of powder. He reported this to Davis, and there, he said, began the plot to do violence in the mine. He said the first attempt was a failure because the cage man discovered him and his pal and drew their fire, but latter a contrivance was successfully fixed by which a discharged pistol set off a bomb and killed Superintendent McCormick and Foreman Beck. Five hundred dollars, he said, was the reward for the murder. Then came the journey to Denver, where the witness said he met Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone and entered their employ as an assassin. He swore that Haywood paid him $300 for blowing up the Vindicator mine. Then came the making of two bombs that were tossed in the coal heap at the Vindicator mine, but were never heard from again, and then a digression to confess that before the successful attempt at the Vindicator mine he had informed the railway management of a plot to blow up its trains carrying nonunion men. Next the prisoner related how he journeyed to Southern Colorado as a guard to Moyer and here the narrative halted for the noon recess.

Tried to Kill Governor Peabody.

There was no delay in the afternoon and Orchard told of his journey with Moyer and his return to Denver, where it was suggested, he said, that he kill Governor Peabody. He said he picked Steve Adams to aid him, and together they stalked the governor between the capitol building and his home trying for a shot with sawed-off shotguns. Haywood and Pettibone were in the plot and furnished the witness with money from time to time. The plot failed because Orchard and Adams followed a carriage containing three women to the Peabody home and excited suspicion.

Next came a plot to dynamite Peabody, and Orchard said they made a bomb, but gave the plan up at the suggestion of Haywood, who was in fear that they would all be arrested. He said that he and Adams were told to lay off for a time, but meantime Pettibone suggested that they kill Lyte Gregory, who had been deputy sheriff and had given testimony against members of the federation. The witness then detailed relentless trailing of Gregory and his final murder.

"Gregory turned and backed up against a fence," said the witness, "as if to draw a gun, and I shot him three times. It certainly killed him."

This tale of cowardly man hunting and killing seemed to play with greater intensity upon the nerves of those who listened to Orchard than any of the others and a shudder went through the room. It was the only case where a victim had actually been faced.

Then came the tragedy at Independence, followed by the flight to Wyoming and after that a trip to San Francisco to kill Bradley. Orchard swore that after his visit to Denver when he got the money for killing McCormick and Beck, he was constantly in communication with and in the pay of either Haywood, Moyer, Pettibone, Simpkins or Davis; that one or all of them suggested his various crimes, and that at all meetings after each crime his associates had been warmly commended.

FORAKER IN NO DANGER.

Would Not Be Tarred and Feathered in Brownsville.

Washington, June 6.—Senator Foraker has been given assurance that it would be safe for him to visit Brownsville regardless of his efforts to prove that negro soldiers were not guilty of shooting up the town. At the conclusion of the testimony of Louis Cowan of Brownsville, who was a witness before the senate committee on military affairs, Cowan said he had been quoted in special dispatches from St. Louis as saying that if Senator Foraker went to Brownsville he would be "tarred and feathered." Cowan denied that he had made any such remark.

"Then you think it would be perfectly safe for me to go there?" asked Senator Foraker.

"Oh, yes sir," said Cowan.

"I greatly appreciate this assurance," said Mr. Foraker.

Cowan was examined closely concerning ammunition he purchased the day of the shooting, but this purchase was not connected in any way with the affray. He testified he saw the flashes of shots from Company D barracks as he stood in front of a saloon on Elizabeth street, but he did not see any negro soldiers.

Bernard Kowalski testified that he attended a party at Cowan's house on the night of the shooting and as he sat in a window facing the alley some negro soldiers passed. The witness said that one of the negroes remarked that the people in the house were having a good time, but they would not be in half an hour.

YACHT RACE TO BERMUDA

Schooner Dervish in the Lead When Last Sighted.

New York, June 6.—Thrashing to windward in southing seas, the black hulled schooner Dervish of the Corinthian Yacht club, Massachusetts, was leading her competitors in the ocean yacht race to Bermuda when the yacht was last sighted from Scotland light vessel just before they were enveloped in mists. Dervish was to windward of the schooner Tammany by nearly two miles, while the other contesting yachts straggled far to leeward. The yawl Hyperion led her two smaller competitors, the sloops Lila and Zena, for the Three Clubs cup.

Nine yachts started in the fifty-foot class or over for the cup offered by Commodore Maier of the New Rochelle Yacht club, while three boats crossed the starting line in the contest of the Three Clubs cup for entries under fifty feet in racing length.

Janitor Chadwick, of Lowell School Resigns—No Successor Has Been Chosen

The Brainerd board of Education, which should have held its regular meeting Monday night adjourned until Wednesday evening because of the graduating exercises. There was comparatively little of interest done at the adjourned meeting, the accepting of the resignation of Janitor Chadwick, of the Lowell school being the most important. No selection of a successor was made. The rest of the janitors were selected at the same salary as last year. The report of tuition showed $77 received from out of town scholars during the year just closed.

All the janitors except Mr. Chadwick were re-elected at the same salary as their predecessors. The teachers' committee was instructed to fill all vacancies. About the usual grist of bills was passed.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Second Annual Meeting of School Boards of Crow Wing County Will be Held Thursday, June 13

The second annual meeting of school boards of the county will be held in the high school room in this city on next Thursday, June 13.

There are 300 members in the county, of this number 250 ought to be in attendance. No recent act of the state legislature has done more for the advancement of the rural schools, than the enactment of the law permitting the county superintendent to call a meeting of all the school boards of the county each year.

It has been found advisable to call off the meeting appointed for Wednesday evening.

Scaring the Enemy

The Mongols, when going into battle, wear hideous masks and frightful decorations make infernal noises and conduct themselves like lunatics with the hope of striking terror to the hearts of the enemy. Perhaps some revival of that purpose inspires the Caucasian Cossacks in the strange riding they do, as shown by them in the Campbell Bros. shows. Their feet are up in the air most of the time, or else they are standing on their saddles, wildly whirling their weapons. It is all a matter of taste and training, no doubt, but however that may be, it is mighty entertaining to see their evolutions. They will exhibit in Brainerd tomorrow.

MANKATO NEXT YEAR

Minnesota State Firemen's Convention at St. Cloud has Largest Attendance in History of Organization

The Brainerd contingent returned from St. Cloud last night after having attended the 35th annual convention of the Minnesota State Fire Department association and all report a royal good time. The record was broken for attendance and although St. Cloud had not expected so many visitors all were provided with accommodation and the crowds were well taken care of. The business of the convention was conducted in the handsome and commodious opera house of that city, the seating capacity of which was ample to accommodate the entire number of delegates on the main floor, leaving the galleries for the interested spectators. The entire two days was spent in business sessions, the parade and amusements taking place after 4 p. m. and in the evening. The next meeting of the association will be at Mankato. In 1909 the firemen will go to Cloquet and in 1910 to Alexandria. The exciting part of the convention was that of selecting the meeting place for 1910, Bemidji, Melrose, Owatonna and Alexandria being candidates. On the first ballot it was apparent that Bemidji stood no show of landing and the name of that town was withdrawn in favor of Alexandria and Melrose followed suit. This practically settled the question and Owatonna seeing that she was beaten withdrew before the second ballot was taken making the selection of the beautiful little city of Alexandria the unanimous choice. The new officers elected for the ensuing year were:

President—Nick Kleinschmidt, Mankato.
First Vice President—Paul Boland, Cloquet.
Second Vice President—L. S. Kent, Alexandria.
Secretary—D. L. Kane, Minneapolis.

CONCERTS IN TWO WEEKS

Brainerd Band is Rapidly Getting in Shape for Evening Concerts—About Twenty in Band

The Brainerd band held an enthusiastic practice Wednesday evening. The boys are hard at work and expect to be in shape to give their first concert in about two weeks. The statement that they wished the council to furnish a new band stand is a mistake. All that they ask is slight repairs on the present band stand and that the city fix the lights and furnish free light. There will be about twenty instruments in the band and all are experienced musicians.

Remarkable Rescue

That truth is stranger than fiction has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work." Guaranteed cure for coughs and colds. 50c and $1.00, at H. P. ## WONDERFUL NEW MARKET.

Great Variety of Articles Required by Panama Canal Commission.

Henry Harrison Lewis, writing in Harper's Weekly, calls attention to the unprecedented stimulus which the construction work on the Panama canal should give to American manufactures of all kinds. "A fair working idea of the great variety of articles required by the commission," says Mr. Lewis, "can be obtained by scrutinizing a single requisition recently received from the isthmus."

"The articles mentioned in this single requisition appeal direct to more than twenty different classes of manufactures, such as manufacturers of railway supplies, car factories, tube works, manufacturers of tools, blacksmith supplies, rope works, cotton mills, manufacturers of barbers' supplies, paint and varnish works, oil refineries, manufacturers of tools, glass works, spirit refineries, manufacturers of office supplies, nail works, makers of high explosives and manufacturers of agricultural implements."

The quantities required by this requisition are worthy the attention of any manufacturer or dealer. For instance, it calls for more than 800 tons of dynamite, 20,000 gallons of red oxide roofing paint, 250 tons of white lead in oil, 300,000 pounds of black powder, 150,000 heavy railroad cross ties, 4,000 mule shoes, 1,000 single beds, with springs, and 1,500 single mattresses, 20,000 gallons of kerosene, 4,000 feet of steel rope and 350 pounds of rubber bands."

VESSEL IS BLOWN UP

Captain of a Turkish Sailing Ship Feared Capture.

LOADED WITH CONTRABAND

Craft Was Laden With Ammunition Bound for Tripoli—Attempt to Seize Ship Results in Death of Over Eighty Persons.

Tunis, June 6.—A Turkish sailing vessel laden with contraband ammunition and bound for Tripoli, blew up near Port Zarziss. Her entire crew, as well as eighty fishermen who were alongside at the time, were drowned. The vessel carried rifles and 500 barrels of powder. The local authorities learned she was about to take advantage of the absence of the guard ships to try to disembark her cargo on the beach. They thereupon ordered a number of armed boats belonging to fishers to prevent the landing. Twenty-four of these boats surrounded the vessel and the men from them were just about to swarm aboard when the explosion occurred. It is believed the captain fired his vessel to avoid capture. The explosion was heard sixty miles. Port Zarziss is near the frontier of Tripoli.

WORK OF INCENDIARIES.

Attempt Made to Destroy the City of Allentown, Pa.

The first fire occurred in the stock house of Bittner, Hunsicker & Co., the second at the Prince Furniture company, and the third at the furniture factory of Helfrich, Bohner & Co.

An effort was made to draw the firemen from the business section by turning in a false alarm from a remote residence section. Total loss, $125,000.

Two of the Italians were each sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment. Of the other foreigners one, a Spaniard, will be executed.

WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

Monken shot and killed Albert Britsch in a saloon in St. Morgan, Ill., when Britsch dared Monken to shoot him.

CROKER WINS A FORTUNE

His Colt Orby Captures the English Derby at Epsom Downs.

London, June 6.—"The Tammany" or "Boss Croker's" derby, as the 1907 race will henceforth be known, proved in many ways a disappointment to the enormous crowd that gathered at Epsom Downs to witness the big sporting event.

Mr. Croker by winning this historic event with his chestnut colt Orby in fine style gained little good will from the British racing public, but he has the satisfaction of having attained the ambition of every sportsman who comes upon the British turf and of having carried out the determination he made a few years ago when the jockey club excluded his horses from Newmarket without assigning any reason, of one day winning the derby. The British public wagered a lot of money on the favorite, Slieve Gallion, and as they like to see the blue ribbon carried off by a titled or aristocratic sportsman, they were keenly disappointed.

The crowd was perhaps smaller than in previous years, but it had all its well known gaiety and picturesqueness and included a large gathering of Americans and Irish who showed unbounded enthusiasm at the victory of Orby. Outside of these partisans nobody regarded the colt as a likely winner, and the betting was never shorter than 6 to 1 against "Johnny" Reiff's mount, and just before the race it was 11 to 1.

Mr. Croker himself, however, had expressed to everybody his confidence that his horse would win, and this belief was justified by his brilliant victory. The time was 2:44. There was only a lukewarm enthusiasm by the general public, but Mr. Croker was heartily congratulated by many prominent persons.

Mr. Croker won at least $25,000 on the race.

Little Progress in Kaufmann Case.

Flandreau, S. D., June 6.—Little progress has been made toward securing a jury for the trial of Mrs. Emma Kaufmann of Sioux Falls, accused of murdering her domestic. Most of the talesmen examined had formed opinions.

Mayor Will Not Go on the Stage.

Milwaukee, June 6.—Mayor Sherburne Becker of this city has decided to decline the offer of $1,500 per week to go on the stage. He will continue his duties as mayor of Milwaukee until the end of his term, he says.

New South Dakota Capitol.

NOT YET CAPTURED

Supposed Slayer of Mrs. McCart Still at Large.

MAY HAVE ENDED HIS LIFE

But Police of Minneapolis Believe Alleged Murderer Has Gone East or Else Gone to Canada—Intimated He Would Commit Suicide.

Minneapolis, June 6.—George Kadelbach, the self-confessed murderer of Mrs. Katherine McCart, is being sought by the police of this city and a large posse of citizens in the vicinity of his farm at Long Lake.

Since late in the afternoon of Tuesday nothing has been seen of the man and although he is known to have mailed a letter at Delano, Minn., either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning no trace of him since then has been discovered.

The latest clue indicates that the murderer came to Minneapolis on Wednesday morning on a Great Northern train from Delano. It is believed that he has left the city for the East or Canada. The police have been informed by a man at Henderson that he saw Kadelbach, whom he knew, on an Omaha train going west Wednesday morning.

The Delano clue is given the most credence, as it was from there the man wrote a letter to his brother-in-law in which he confessed his crime.

The letter written by Kadelbach was sent to Henry Classen and in it the man admits having killed his sister-in-law and says he intends to kill himself within a short time. That he did not have the nerve to kill himself when he killed the woman he partially admits, and the police believe he has not done so yet, but is fleeing from justice.

MINNESOTA RATE LAWS.

Continuance of Hearing on Restraining Order Is Granted.

St. Paul, June 6.—At a conference between Attorney General E. T. Young and Jared How of the firm of How, Butler & Mitchell, attorneys for the railroad stockholders who have brought suit in the federal court to restrain the enforcement of the commodity rate and the 2-cent passenger fare laws enacted by the last legislature, a continuance of the hearing on the restraining orders issued by Judge Lochren against the enforcement of the commodity rates was agreed upon from June 12 to July 8.

Rumors had been in circulation that an attempt might be made to have the attorney general or a member of the railroad and warehouse commission take some step toward the enforcement of the law in order that he might be arrested for contempt of the federal court. Habeas corpus proceedings would then be taken in the federal supreme court and his release demanded on the ground that the federal court had exceeded its powers in attempting to enjoin the state from the enforcement of its laws. The attorney general declined to discuss this phase of the question.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Two Men Found Guilty of Killing General Barillas.

City of Mexico, June 6.—Florence Morales and Benada Mora have been found guilty of murdering General Manuel Barillas, former president of the republic of Guatemala, in this city on the night of April 7.

The jury which returned the verdict was out an hour and forty minutes. Upon the announcement of the verdict, the attorneys of the assassins asked clemency, citing the provision for twenty years' imprisonment. The court took the matter under advisement and in thirty minutes returned, pronouncing the death sentence. No date was set for the execution.
